Calling all Tyler Park Neighborhood Gardeners ! Twelfth Annual Tyler Park Neighborhood Association Garden Tour

As gardens and landscapes rest in the cool of winter, the Tyler Park Garden Tour Committee is busy making plans for the 2017 TPNA Garden Tour set tentatively for Saturday, June 3rd. The Garden Tour has now expanded to also include an "after the garden tour social event" affording an opportunity for all TPNA residents, gardeners and non-gardeners alike, to participate in many exciting capacities. The "after the garden tour" gathering was a huge success in previous years and residents have called for a continuation of this popular event.

The TPNA Garden Tour Committee is looking for residents to participate in this year's tour by having their garden or landscape as part of the tour. If you have a garden or landscape with flowers, vegetables, water features, swimming pools, chicken coops, solar energy, wind energy, or other technological "green" features, or "old school" features, we are looking for you! No project or garden is too small or seemingly insignificant to be included in the TPNA Garden Tour!

All TPNA residents are encouraged to be part of the garden tour and social event by:

- * Volunteering to help garden tour hosts the day of the tour.
- * Volunteering for the "after the garden tour" social event.
- * Sponsorship of the TPNA Garden Tour through monetary contributions.
- * By attending and purchasing tickets to the 2017 TPNA Garden Tour!

Lastly, these popular and fun events that showcase our beautiful gardens, neighborhood, Olmstead designed Tyler Park, and fantastic neighbors and residents, would not be possible without the support of people like you!

To volunteer, submit your garden, or sponsor the 2017 TPNA Garden Tour, please contact: Garden Tour Committee Co-Chairs,

A Big Thank You to Tom Owen for his 23 Years of Service to Louisville and Especially to Tyler Park Neighborhood

A Celebration of Hope

Back in 1925 the old Tyler Park Club started Christmas tree lighting ceremonies in the park. The old storm-damaged cedar by the smaller set of tennis courts is believed to be one of the trees planted in those ceremonies. This year, ninety-one years later, TPNA revived the custom with a ceremony called the Celebration of Hope.

First, we had to get a tree. Thanks to stellar efforts by Martha Berner at Metro Parks and the good people at the Olmsted Parks Conservancy, a beautiful red cedar was planted on the lower slopes of the sledding hill near Tyler Park Drive. Our new tree is about seven feet tall, and it is expected to reach a height of 35 to 60 feet.

The ceremony itself took place in the early evening of Sunday, December 18. About a dozen people met to decorate the tree and celebrate the idea of light shining in winter's darkness. Due to a scheduling problem, the priest for St. James and St. Bridget was unable to attend, but the Congregation Adath Jeshurun was represented by Cantor David Lipp and the Louisville Islamic Center by Imam Mohammed Iqbal.

Cantor Lipp remarked that Hanukkah and Christmas Day coincide this year, and that another evergreen, the olive tree, was the symbol of peace in the story of Zechariah. Imam Iqbal gave a prayer of peace in Arabic and translated into English. We shared tea lights and candles while several others offered their thoughts. We embraced and left the newly-lit tree shining in the dark.

Now that we have a start, the plan is to keep going. Let us know what you would like to see next year. We have discussed lights on the bridge and encouraging decorations in the homes around the park. With the lessons learned about scheduling we will try to increase the number of congregations represented, and maybe add some music. The lesson, though, will stay the same: hope is always present when people of good will come together.

Message from Former Councilman Tom Owen

Tyler Park Residents:

I want to express my gratitude for selecting me for local elected public service for twenty-three of the last twenty-seven years. Since 1990, I've witnessed from you a special love for neighborhood: you have fought for a vital Mid-City Mall, worked to make your neighborhood pedestrian friendly, spoken up for orderly development, supported your library, and treated Tyler Park like it was your own. I have been honored to have supported your initiatives that have ranged from biting off good chunks of the Tyler Park Masterplan to more recently working toward a Beechwood Avenue Green Space. You've welcomed me at Shakespeare and jazz in Tyler Park as well as at your wine tasting and garden tours.

I look forward to the fresh leadership of Brandon Coan— have you noticed that both the past and present Council member for the 28,000 residents of the Highlands are both Tyler Parkers? While I'm out of office, I will remain your Tyler Park neighbor: playing with grandkids in the park, pedaling and riding a bus everywhere, doing yard work up on Hill Road, and hanging out on the Baxter-Bardstown Road business corridor. Here's to the 'hood and our rewarding time together: past, present and future.

Trees Delivered

The previous issue of The Neighborhood Bridge promised a campaign that would start our recovery from disastrous tree canopy losses. The community delivered; we are coming back.

Seventeen homes received a total of twenty-three trees that in time will deliver nearly an acre of shade. Overhead lines and small front yards on our target streets kept us from planting as many large sized trees as we would have liked but fifteen of the trees have the potential to reach a height of 50' or more. The new canopy will be diverse, with twelve different species planted.

It was a good first year effort and, given its late start, it was downright magnificent. Credit for that belongs with our grant writer and chief salesperson Jo Shipley, our project manager Katherine Moberly, our caterer Stephanie Callen, our transportation specialist Clark Cox, who also made a cash contribution with his wife Kathy, and the community at large.

Other neighborhoods helped us. Josh White from Highlands-Douglass lent his expertise. Greg Fleck, Robin Blackshear, and Jim Schorch from the Original Highlands gave generously of their time throughout the process.

Special mention goes to the Green Teams from the St. James school who showed up in force with their adult leaders Melissa Rue, Shelby Thomas, and David Doll to distribute mulch on planting day.

Area high schools brought fourteen of the 37 volunteers who joined us for the planting day: a teacher and ten students from Assumption, two students from Manual, and one from Waggener.

Tyler Park neighbors who turned out to dig included Ed Kruger, Ernst Trachsel, Greg Guelda, John Callen, Jorge Zenil, Margaret Gerstle, Jim Gerstle, Mike Gramig, and Stephanie Reilly. Highland Coffee donated the coffee, Boombozz Pizza gave us lunch, and the Louisville Water Company donated water bottles for our volunteers.

A grant from MSD paid for the expenses of the campaign, along with suggested donations of $25 per tree from those who received trees, plus cash donations from some extraordinary people who could not plant a tree this year but wanted to help. Thanks to Alice Boyer, Joe Burnett Jr., Anita Chambers, Ray Griffith, Brian Phillips, and Andy Sims.

Neighbors also helped out by posting signs for the campaign: Ken Baker and Roy and Alyce McDonald on Tyler Park Drive; Ron and Jill Bath on Edgeland Avenue; and Bill and Terry Redden and David and Mary Beth Zickel on Edenside Avenue..

Going forward, we have a seasoned team, marketing materials we can re-use, and funds that can provide self-insurance against tree losses in the coming years. Plus our twenty-three new arrivals, filtering our air and water and growing new canopy. Downright magnificent.

These Twenty-Three Young Trees Grow in Tyler Park Neighborhood

Below are public domain photos cropped and sized of the 23 types of trees we planted. The sizing is their height at maturity, scaled 2/10 of an inch to ten feet. So a tree that will grow to 70' is pictured in an image 1.4" tall. Some of the images are repeated to represent multiple plantings of the same type of tree. Three redbud images for the three redbuds we planted, for example.

All tree pictures were downloaded from www.forestryimages.org and were cropped and sized for the illustration. Source photographs were by John Ruter, Paul Wray, Richard Webb, Steven Katovich, and T. Davis Sydnor. Please see <http://www.forestryimages.org/about/imageusage.cfm> for terms of image usage.

Comprehensive Planning

Imagine a place where people have to stop, unload, and reload before going further upriver. Things will stack up, a town will form, and the town will eventually grow into a city. That will happen without much planning. But imagine instead you already have a city and things are moving a bit faster than in the steamboat days. For that you need comprehensive planning and given the speed of change, the planning has to look farther ahead. Louisville Metro government has invited citizens to join the planning process.

The first step was to assess where we have been and to predict where we can go, guided by citizen input on where we want to arrive. The result was the extensive report, Vision Louisville, with a specialized look at transportation called Move Louisville.

The years of effort in those two projects and other related work has been applied to give a meaningful context for a revision of the central planning document of our Metro government.

The current plan, called Cornerstone 2020, is “the framework for Louisville and Jefferson County’s land development... the community’s direction for future development and growth... [and recommended] policies and projects to achieve its desired results”, as explained on the www.louisvilleky.gov website. The Kentucky statutes require cities to have comprehensive plans and to revise them on a regular basis. Cornerstone 2020 was adopted in June, 2000 as a long range plan for the twenty-year period whose end we are now approaching.

The Mayor formed an advisory committee to guide development of the new comprehensive plan, and a general meeting for the public was held in November to organize the detailed work.

At this stage the public is participating in work groups to write goals and objectives for six topics: community facilities, community form, housing, livability and environment, marketplace, and mobility. Refer to the sidebar for information on the individual groups.

Public participation is vital. Every person who shows up brings a fresh view of our issues and the solutions we can create. Nothing says people can only come to one work group, either. Personal insight can inform the groups how the different topics relate. As a recent example, the closing of the 810 Barret government center (a point of discussion for the Community Facilities work group) creates a need for transportation from some of the old city neighborhoods out to the new government center in Middletown. — Ray Brundige, TPNA Board

For advisory committee information, see:

<https://louisvilleky.gov/government/planning-design/advisory-committee>.

Look there for the notes on the August 31, 2015 meeting, which has some basic information. The committee meets monthly, skipping December. The next public meeting will be on January 24.

There are six work groups, which are listed at <https://louisvilleky.gov/government/planning-design/work-groups>. Each has its own page.

Community Facilities – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies related to the location and design of public facilities including parks, government buildings, schools, utilities and non-transportation infrastructure such as water and sewer facilities.

Community Form – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies that address the character and diversity of Louisville’s neighborhoods by reviewing and updating the Form District descriptions and incorporating recommendations from the Historic Preservation Task Force.

Housing – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies that address and advance the provision of and access to housing for all of Louisville’s citizens.

Livability & Environment – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies to enhance community health and equity, and incorporating sustainability into the Plan. The work of this group will be informed by Sustain Louisville, Healthy Louisville, and the Health Equity Report.

Marketplace – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies relating to Louisville’s business and economic growth.

Mobility – This work group will focus on updating the Comprehensive Plan policies related to land use and transportation patterns, including street connectivity, transit, enhancing the pedestrian and bicycle networks and the relationship between land use and transportation. The work of this group will be informed by the goals identified in Move Louisville.

After the Purge 2014 & 2015,

TPNA Membership Is Down by 41 Members

Before the purge, TPNA had a total of 396 members and after the purge; we have a total of 355 members. The total decrease was not all because of the purge. Only 38 members were purged; we had 1 renter who moved and 2 houses were sold. Much help is needed to rebuild the membership database in 2017. If you are a new or old homeowner in Tyler Park, please consider joining TPNA. It only costs $15 a year and if you have an email address you receive the extra benefit of receiving email alerts. If you are a renter, you can also join TPNA. Purged members listed below are more than welcome to rejoin and participate in all the community activities that TPNA offers including having their email address re-entered!

There will be a change in policy regarding the distribution of postcards in 2017. All members will receive first-time renewal notification postcards. After that, only members without email addresses will receive additional renewal notices by postcard. Members with email addresses will receive further notices by email. This is being done in order to save on costs. If this creates a problem for you, please notify me at (502)727-6856 or email me at janetdakan@gmail.com.
